

June 15, 2016

GableGotwals to host employment law webinar

Human resource professionals and in-house legal counsel can attend a free employment law webinar at noon June 24 offered this month by the GableGotwals law firm.

“FSLA: Are You Ready for the New Salary Level Test?” will help companies navigate the new Department of Labor overtime standards which take effect Dec. 1.

The hour-long webinar will explore the changes in the salary level test, used to determine employee exemption status.

The new rules could leave many companies facing unexpected financial burdens because of new overtime compensation regulations. The training will look at proper employee classification and appropriate considerations for those whose salaries do not meet the criteria for exemption.

GableGotwals labor and employment attorneys Erin Dailey and Ellen Adams will lead the webinar. This training has been approved for Society of Human Resource Management professional development credits.

To register, visit gablelaw.com.